Does your office hygiene meet expectations?

Why hygiene matters

64%
of office workers believe poor hygiene negatively affects employees

52%
of office workers worry about getting infected by sick colleagues

58%
of office workers would like their employer to provide hand sanitiser

Results based on Tork global survey of 8,000 office workers in major cities around the world.

TORK®

People do take notice of office washroom hygiene products. 79% say they would inform their manager if they weren't satisfied with the quality.

Use one tree, we'll plant two.

Thanks to our customers, we're restoring landscapes across Australia.

Officeworks will plant two trees for every one used, based on the weight of paper-based products customers buy at Officeworks. There are regions across Australia where 85% of the natural landscapes have been lost. These locations were once called home by endangered wildlife.

Together with Greening Australia, we'll be establishing native plants in these landscapes, increasing water quality and revegetating bushland. In turn, this helps wildlife flourish.

Restoring Australia enables us to:

- Introduce more than 20 native plants to the identified locations.
- Provide a new home for local wildlife like the Eastern Barred Bandicoot.
- Reconnect key areas of habitat to help foster biodiversity.
