31 Workspace Success Stories

Choose the chair that's right for you.

Spending long, continuous hours sitting can add stress to your spine, so it's important to have an office chair that supports your lower back and promotes good posture.

We have the right range of office chairs, drafting chairs and stools, each with different ergonomic features and benefits.

These icons help you quickly identify the features and benefits most suited to your needs:

These chairs let you adjust the height of the back to help improve your posture.

It doesn't matter what height you are, these seats have an easy height-adjustment feature.

Seats with this icon let you lean back in your chair instead of sitting upright all the time.

The seat of these chairs can tilt backwards and forwards to fit your body.

The back and seat of these chairs can both be adjusted to give you all the support you need.

Look for the AFRDI rated tick.

An AFRDI Level 6 certified office chair will meet most commercial needs, and should be able to withstand extremely heavy use.

AFRDI Level 4 certified office chairs are suitable for general office use.

Seating

Our wide selection of business-grade chairs are rated for everyday, high usage. "I was really happy with the way our studio fit-out turned out. They listened to what we wanted and knew how to make the most of the space we had."

Daniel McDonald – Aspect Studios
(Officeworks Business Account Customer)

Aspect Studios

We worked with Aspect Studios to organise a simple and professional reception and office fit-out that met their design requirements while maximising office space.

Aspect Studios were extremely happy with the outcome and our ability to meet their time frame and budget.

"The coordination, quality of product and service were unparalleled."

Kip Sandercock, DB Schenker
(Officeworks Business Account Customer)

DB Schenker

DB Schenker is a premier provider of integrated logistics services, and needed to provide a warm and welcoming environment for its customers and team alike.

Part of our specific requirement was to ensure that tight time frames were met for installation, and delivery coincided with the building construction.

"For me it is all about service. The team at Officeworks were really easy to work with and nothing we asked for was too much."

Lois Shuttleworth – Hear and Say
