

Upcycling glas storage

Grab a couple of empty pickle jars and design some creative storage.

Upcycling makes it fun to make something pretty that's as good as new from objects that you would probably never use again. Let your creativity run free as you design and label your new old storage jars. Hand lettering is a great opportunity to design pretty labels and tags.

An article by Mone

Step-by-step tutorial

1

Print out the templates and stick them to the inside of the glass using sticky tape.

2

Now go over the outlines using the Lumocolor permanent duo (line width F).

3

Remove the templates from the glass and go over the lettering again with the Lumocolor permanent duo (line width B). If you like, add little decorations, e.g. a pasta shape or similar.

Now fill the glass with pasta or other ingredients from your kitchen. Screw the lid shut and cover it with a beeswax cloth.

4

Alternative design option: Create pretty labels using black paper and the super soft coloured pencil in white, and simply attach to the glass using sticky tape.

Material overview

What you need

Product	Article no.	Quantity
Lumocolor® permanent duo 348 Double ended permanent marker with two bullet tips - Single product black	348-9	1

Additionally required:

empty pickle or jam jars, black paper, sticky tape, wax cloth, scissors